

December 15, 2005

We at IBM would like to formally thank Boris for performing at our Holiday event on December 2, 2005. Feedback from the audience regarding his performance was remarkable! Attendees said they laughed through the entire show and were very surprised at several of the acts demonstrated. His material was well suited and appropriate for a corporate audience. All jokes and demonstrations were sensitive to participating members and carefully articulated. Boris has a way of captivating and retaining the audience's attention during his performance, indicative of an experienced, exciting performer who is receptive to reading and reacting to his audience. We feel honoured to have had Boris perform at our event and would definitely consider him for future IBM corporate events.

Sincerely,

Katherine Daciuk
